A Message from Chairman, Buddy Bishop

I HAD ALMOST FORGOTTEN...

It was late last year when I began to hear a whisper in my soul, a quiet voice saying, "I don't know why I'm doing this anymore." This was the question that haunted me as I toiled away as a unit chairman, pouring in countless hours, sacrificing sleep and personal time for a cause I couldn't quite remember.

The exhaustion was building, but I never stopped or even slowed down much. My once burning passion was now a flickering flame, and although I continued my work, my heart felt heavy and my steps unsure.

And then, one day, it all changed. A sudden realization, like a bolt of lightning, struck me, illuminating the darkness that clouded my purpose. How could I have let myself forget?

The year is 2023, a pivotal moment in the Goochland Revolution, and I am standing right in the heart of it all. Am I prepared? Honestly, I don't know. Can I do what is needed? I'm not sure, but I can and will at least try.

I remember the awe-inspiring beginnings of the first revolution, the magnetic energy that surrounded me, and the extraordinary people I met who were committed to making a difference. People like Ben Slone, Susan Lascolette, John Lumpkins, and many others that either worked for, or recruited others, or they themselves ran - and won local office – the movers and shakers and persistent workers who, through unwavering determination and conviction, beneficially changed this little county we live in.

Once, I could clearly articulate the driving force behind my simple initial involvement: preventing John Kerry from becoming President. I couldn't stand the thought of looking in the mirror, knowing that I did nothing to stop it from happening. I registered for the first time, and I voted "NO" in his face. But time passed, and as I became more deeply immersed in the cause, I lost sight of the spark that ignited my passion: Stepping up and doing what I could to "Keep the Republic".

Then, the other day an email arrived from a potential new candidate, and everything came flooding back:

"I have been asking God what he wants me to do and for him to use me as an effective tool to stop the madness that is sweeping across this country. I can't see how backing down running for local office lives up to what I am asking God. Win or lose it will be God's will and he put me here for a reason. Also, I can't in good conscience say I live up my Oath to The Constitution by backing down because campaigning is too hard or too complicated. The Marine in me will never let that happen. If there was someone else, I believed in, well that might be justified but there is not. Years from now I don't want to reflect on these times and say I almost did something. I want to say to my future grandkids I did do something."

This powerful message stirred something within me, and the flickering flame of my purpose reignited. I have feared the loss of our country and the Republic, and I was reminded of my brother Brian's lament: "Wait! I just got here! I now understand what is at stake and NOW WE LOSE?!"

In my heart, I knew that someday, when asked, "What did you do in those days when America was still America?", I wanted to describe a passionate, tireless effort – a testament to my determination to make a difference.

The email quoted in part above served as a reminder of why I do what I do. But it's not about me – it's about making a difference, and that can only happen if I try. The same is true for you.

As conservatives, our actions today are a gift to our future selves, a way to clear our conscience before our God and those who will follow in our footsteps. Everything matters. Everything.

In the end, our purpose can be found, and the flame of our motivation rekindled. The journey of reawakening begins with a single, powerful reminder, and the steadfast determination to keep moving forward.

It's essential that we keep our eyes on the prize, reminding ourselves of our core beliefs and the reasons why we embarked on this journey. Our past selves had the vision and passion to make a difference, and we owe it to them, to our future selves and others, to remember and honor that commitment.

So, let's search for the spark that first ignited our hearts, rekindle that flame, and let it burn brighter than ever before. Let us strive to leave a legacy that we can be proud of, knowing that we fought for what we believed in, and never stood idly by.

Together, as a community of like-minded individuals, we can maintain useful change and preserve the values that define us. Remember that your actions, no matter how small, can make a significant impact. Embrace the challenges ahead and face them head-on with renewed purpose and determination.

Reawaken the passion that may lay dormant within you, and never forget why you started on the journey towards true conservatism in the first place. The year ahead is daunting, yet reconnecting with our original motivation will indeed allow us to preserve and further what is necessary – one step at a time.

A Second United States Civil War – Absurd or Inevitable!

THE INCOMPARABLE JOHN D. MYERS!

I am quite content with my station in life where I am just a nobody to whom few people pay attention. When I write something shocking, people usually say "it's just the ramblings of that crazy old guy". That's fine with me. By the way, let me make this unequivocally clear – I am not advocating a civil war. With the possibility of a war with China and Russia, we cannot fight them if we are fighting ourselves. Don't send the FBI to my house!

I suspect that our primary adversary, China, along with other members of the "Axis of Evil", Russia, Iran and South Korea have long ago sat down and discussed which targets in the United States could they attack simultaneously and eliminate our ability to respond in any meaningful way. Of course, they would also strike the United Kingdom because they are our main NATO ally. They really aren't concerned much about the other NATO members. Which nations among them have a military that is worth a cent? Hell, I and a few fellow geezers in my American Legion Post could guzzle a few beers and take France in a couple of days. But why should our enemies wage an attack on us? All they have to do is wait until we self-destruct, a course we are presently on.

Now I know what you are thinking – this guy is out of his tree! What are the real chances of U.S. Citizens taking up arms against each other? This depends on how much excrement we are willing to eat. Don't think that would be healthy for you and probably won't taste good? Well, in some respects we are already partaking of it.

The Communist Democrats have turned up the heat over the past few decades. Many of the events taking place today were unimaginable a few years ago. The U. S. Constitution has been made irrelevant, because they despise virtually every freedom it recognizes and that those freedoms come from God, they fight against it, and our fellow citizens. Where in the Constitution does it give our federal government the authority to attempt to control the weather, to determine what energy sources we can and cannot use, or to give the right in every state to end unwanted pregnancies? None of these things are explicit or remotely implicit in our founding documents. And our citizens have been complicit in the grasping of power by our government. Remember the public outcry when the U.S. Supreme Court overturned Roe vs. Wade?

The truth of the matter is that we are already at war with our fellow countrymen. No, we have not yet taken up arms, but that possibility becomes more realistic with each passing day. Liberals do not want what we want. We want our freedoms. They don't want us to have them, but they do want those freedoms for themselves. We want law and order. They don't want us to have that protection, but they certainly insist that they should enjoy it. We want limited government. They want an all-powerful government, because those at the top of the liberal heap feel they will be the ones in control of it. We think we know what's best for ourselves and our families, but they think they know what's best for us, and they intend to force their ways on the rest of us.

So how did the Commies get to the point where they have so much power over the rest of us? The answer is persistence and determination. They are in it for the long term, but we are near the end of that term. This will sound like a broken record, but I cannot overemphasize the significant control they have over the major news outlets, K12 schools and our institutions of higher education. Indoctrination and propaganda are their main tools. And of course, they have a lot of help from the group I hate most – stupid people. It begins with convincing people our nation was founded by an evil bunch of people who took the land from the Indians and used slave labor to get rich. Yes, we did take the land from others who resided here, but anyone who knows squat about world history will tell you that virtually every civilized and autonomous country on earth got their land by taking it from someone else at some point. And as for slavery, that is a hurdle that was cleared by our real Civil War which ended in 1865.

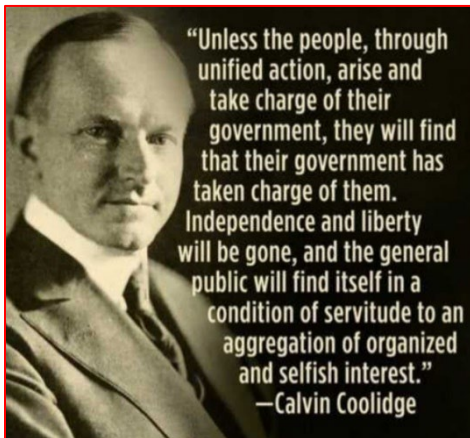

Among the many tactics used by the Commies is to keep people divided. Everyone in America has to have an enemy. So, they feed this by using financial differences, race, religion, ethnicity, educational level and any other differences in people to convince them to hate each other. And they are successful at protecting and promoting their own hate groups (e.g., Antifa, Black Lives Matter), while vilifying other groups or organizations like the NRA, Right to Life, FreedomWorks and others.

Commies also buy support. Notice how many government give-away programs are established and supported by the communist Democrats. These are not intended to help the poor and downtrodden. They are created to get people addicted to government support in order to get and keep their votes.

If you are not feeling the pinch of a rapid decline in your freedoms and ability for self-determination, then you have been asleep at the switch. During the height of the COVID-19 Pandemic, our government simply ignored the Constitution. There were mandates for many to take the vaccine. There were restrictions on your rights to assemble. And if you dared to speak out about the mandates or restrictions, you became a target. Are you beginning to taste the crap now?

As this is written, former President Donald Trump is expected to be arrested in the next day or so for paying off a stripper with whom he is alleged to have had an affair. She had threatened to go public during his 2016 Presidential campaign if he didn't pay up. This should disturb even the Trump haters and Never Trumpers. Regardless of how you feel about the moral aspect of this situation, this is a very dangerous precedence. To have a former U.S. President hauled off to jail in handcuffs over something as trivial is a travesty. The charges are being brought by no other than Alvin Bragg, New York City Commonwealth's Attorney, who refuses to prosecute robbers, rapists, murderers, drug dealers and other vermin, but somehow finds the energy to charge President Trump. Keep in mind that Bill Clinton Raped a woman and there is strong evidence that brainless Biden was involved in influence peddling while he was Vice President. Why does this affect you? Currently, our former President is leading in the polls for the 2024 Presidential Election. Few people can disagree that while President, Donald Trump protected our country and our freedoms. The Left does not want to let that ever happen again. Out of office for two years, and he is still their main target. They will stop at nothing to assure he will not be elected again.

Ask most of the Commie Democrats in Congress, and even in many state legislators what the greatest problem facing America is and perhaps 99% will say "climate change." And these are supposed to be sane people. Think China or Russia give a damn about climate change? With Vladimir Putin cozying up to Xi Jenping, and possibly supplying Russia with weapons to use against The Ukraine, they think something over which they have absolutely no control is a bigger threat. I guess they don't feel that China will invade Taiwan next. What does the Left think we will do then?

Bad government affects us all. If the poor decisions made by those in power only affected those who put them in, we wouldn't have a problem. But we have a Constitutional Republic here in the United States of America, and we all suffer from those bad decisions. The political machine put in place by the Communist Democrats is

"If you ever feel useless, remember it took 20 years, trillions of dollars and 4 US Presidents to replace the Taliban with the Taliban" formidable. It is powerful enough to get people elected to high offices who do not like America. It elected Presidents Jimmy Carter, Bill Clinton, Barack Obama and Crap-for-brains Biden. None of those people share your values and your love of country. They also elected for senators and Congressmen, Chuck Schumer, Bernie Sanders, Nancy Pelosi, Alexandra Ocasio Cortez, Ilhan Omar, Rashia Talib and Ayanna Presley. Would you refer to any of these people as patriots? Yet they make decisions on your behalf. And guess what! More like them will be elected in the future, because their machine is well-oiled by indoctrinated young people and sub- stupid adults. So let's rule out the idea that irresponsible people would have of a civil war. But I pose this question to you. What will you, as a responsible person, do to combat a Socialist/Communist takeover of our country?

John D. Myers

Will not tolerate crap for dinner!

The Golden Triangle of Freedom

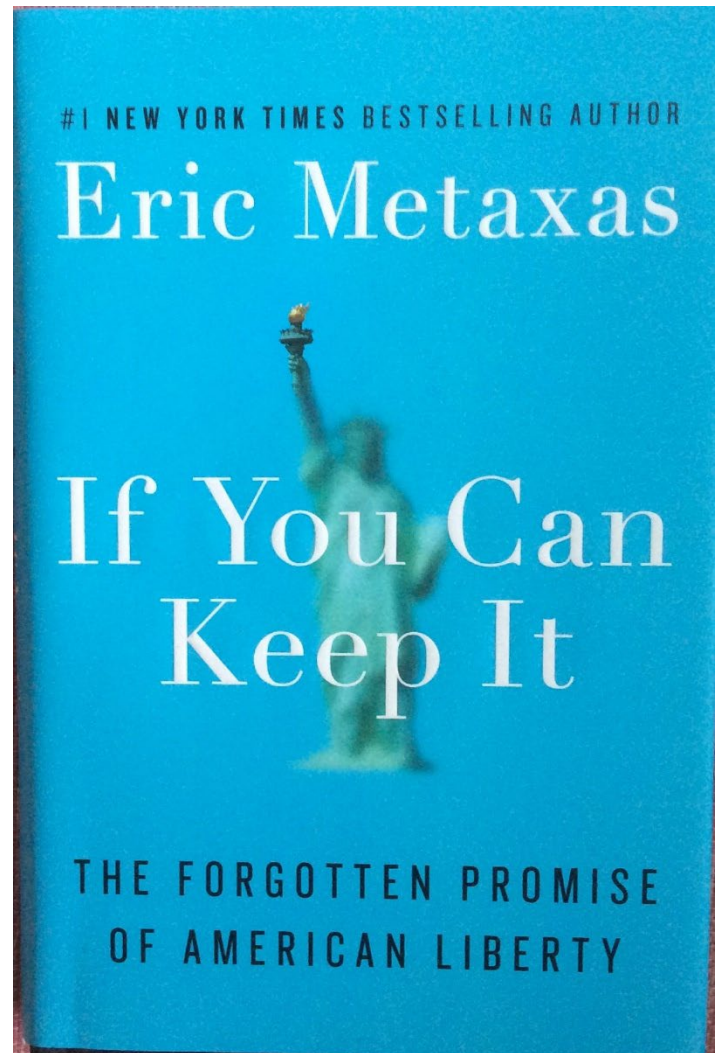

GLENN DIERSEN

In 1831, a French historian and political thinker named Alexis De Tocqueville visited the United States to try and understand, firsthand, what had enabled the young Republic to grow and flourish as much as it had in its first roughly 50 years. Upon his return to Europe, he wrote his classic work, “Democracy in America”. A quote that is misattributed to de Tocqueville sums up his conclusion: “Not until I went into the churches of America and heard her pulpits aflame with righteousness, did I understand the secret of her genius and power. America is great because she is good, and if America ever ceases to be good, she will cease to be great”.

Reading those words today could cause many to shudder, I would think. It’s hard to imagine churches with “pulpits aflame” these days as there are reports of many churches closing their doors due to lack of a sufficient congregation. On top of that, Covid taught us that our government felt ABC stores were more important to the people than religion.

The British Historian, Os Guinness, in his 2012 book titled, “A Free People’s Suicide” explains the essential foundation of our government of the people, by the people, for the people. His name for it is the Golden Triangle of Freedom. In essence, the Golden Triangle surmises that freedom requires virtue, virtue requires faith and faith requires freedom. There are numerous quotes from our founders, too many to list, that support that first leg of the triangle such as Benjamin Franklin’s, “Only a virtuous people are capable of freedom” and John Adam’s, “The only foundation of a free Constitution is pure virtue”. When de Tocqueville visited many years later, he saw plainly that the secret of American freedom was American virtue. Not an inherent virtue, but a virtue that was a deep-seated part of the American culture at that time.

What then of the second leg of the triangle, virtue requires faith? John Adams said, “Our Constitution was made only for a moral and religious people. It is wholly inadequate to the government of any other”. He understood that the key to self-government was that the people themselves must be capable of self-governing. For this to be the case, morality was necessary. But notice that Adams says a moral and religious people. For Adams and most of the founders and American citizens at that time, religion was a necessary component to the success of the new Republic. In that time, religion, some form of Christianity in most cases, was a given! From the writings and quotes attributable to the Founders, the large majority of them could not have foreseen a future where American citizens would not comprehend this, but in fact, actually argue against it. If asked the question, what would cause someone to act virtuously, our Founders would have said it was religion. And when de Tocqueville came to visit, he observed it to still be so as he said, “In France, I had almost always seen the spirit of religion and the spirit of freedom marching in different directions. But in America, I found they were intimately united, and they reigned in common over the same country”.

Almost unanimously, the Founders felt that virtue was necessary to freedom and religion/faith was necessary to virtue. So, what was it that enabled religion to thrive in America as it did? According to Guinness, that was Freedom! As you look around America today, you would be hard pressed to say that we have anywhere near the freedoms that Americans of the 1800’s had. Just look at the countless laws and regulations and taxes that we are all subject to. A day doesn’t go by that we don’t hear about a random mass shooting such as the Nashville shooting just days ago or watch a video of a random attack by mobs on innocent bystanders or the ambush of police. It would be hard to disagree the virtue that was so prevalent in American society during our first 50 – 100 years and upon which our Constitution is based, has taken leave of many of our citizens. It would be hard to argue that taking God and religion out of our schools, public buildings and arenas many decades ago hasn’t been a factor in virtue’s demise.

America was great because we were good. We certainly are not good at this time and in fact are in a pretty steep decline in multiple ways. However, we can be great again. We just must get around to being good again. And fast!

Campaigning in Virginia...is it the Money or the Message that Wins?

OR IS IT A MATTER OF THE VOTES VS BALLOTS?

The cost of legislative races in Virginia has more than tripled in the last twenty years. When adjusted for inflation, in 1999 the aggregate spent for the campaigns was $38.9 million. By 2019 it was $134.8 million. The cost of gubernatorial races rose from $58.4 million in 2001 to nearly $188 million in 2021, when adjusted for inflation. So, if you want to represent Virginians, you better have some cash cow behind you.

As most people know, Virginia law does not limit the amount of money donated to candidates and political action committees. The same is true for only three other states: Nebraska, Oregon, and Utah. Virginians running for federal office are held to limits on campaign donations. There has been legislation proposed to change this.

So, who was the largest political donor in Virginia for 2020-2021? According to VPAP, that would be our governor, Glenn Youngkin. Highest donor in the state = highest position in the state.

Now, it's all fine when our guy wins. But it's not fine as a matter of principle. It stinks. And why should anyone have to give up so much personal wealth to run for office? This while McAuliffe was raking in millions from other states for his campaign against Youngkin. I'd argue that the intent of Virginia government is for only the constituents to have an interest in who is representing them. So, shouldn't only be the constituents who help fund the campaigns.

Typically, in Virginia, Dominion Energy is one of the top donors. Then there's the donor, Michael Bills in Charlottesville who decided to take them on. He's an environmentalist hell bent on solar and wind power. It's no wonder Virginia has California style legislation for the green energy, including no gas car sales by 2030. All because some rich guy whose money-gaming in the climate scam decides to fund candidates who will pay him back in legislation. It's a solid strategy. In fact, maybe it's a more powerful position to be a mega donor than a politician if you want to affect legislation in Virginia.

So, we have a dumb situation here now where we're expecting our legislators who are playing this game to actually work to change it. Is that not the fox watching the hen house? They're already beholden to their donors, and they've worked hard to master the system if they're now in office. It's stacked against the people from the private sector because developing the contacts and deals to garner the financial support leads to career politicians and political power for the very wealthy who fund them without limits.

But is money everything? A lot of money but a lack-luster candidate or campaign won't get people off their couch to vote. Little money but a creative impactful message, and you get free promotion from engaged constituents talking politics, forwarding social media, and organically spreading of the word. That is, if there's not censorship from the powers that be in our government's collusion with media. There clearly is censorship so the only organic spreading of the word is by word of mouth. So, know your facts and use your mouth every chance you get.

And about those people not motivated enough by a campaign message to get off their couch to vote...Virginia has a program for that! Some call it "ballot harvesting". Someone can just come pick up that guy's ballot and make sure he "votes." To be fair, there are guidelines for ballot collection in Virginia. But since the first time we instituted "mail-in" ballots, then changed the law in favor of ballot collection, the Dems share of votes went up around 25% in Goochland. I would never accuse the Goochland Dems of cheating. But it would be fair to say that they have done a much better job legally collecting ballots to help their candidates.

Times have changed in Virginia elections. The focus needs to be about ballots, not votes. The constituents are competing with big money donors for relevance in representation. But that's a problem once the candidate is elected. First we need to get them into office by having enough ballots to win. Once they're in, we need to keep them accountable to us constituents who got enough ballots through and just hope there are enough wealthy donors affecting legislation on our side.

REP. GOOD AND SEN. CASSIDY LEAD CHARGE TO OVERTURN BIDEN'S STUDENT LOAN TRANSFER SCHEME

March 27, 2023 WASHINGTON, D.C. – Today, Congressman Bob Good (R-Va.) and Senator Bill Cassidy (R-La.) announced that they are leading the Joint Resolution of Disapproval under the Congressional Review Act (CRA) to overturn President Biden's first proposed unlawful student loan transfer scheme after the Government Accountability Office (GAO) recently ruled the action was eligible for Congressional action.

"President Biden's so-called student loan forgiveness programs do not make the debt go away, but merely transfer the costs from student loan borrowers onto taxpayers to the tune of hundreds of billions of dollars," Congressman Good said. "Congress should stop these unilateral actions, and I am proud to lead the fight in the House to hold President Biden accountable for his reckless, unfair, and unlawful student loan proposal. I hope all my colleagues will join me and support this effort."

"President Biden is not forgiving debt, he is shifting the burden of student loans off of the borrowers who willingly took on their debt and placing it onto those who chose to not go to college or already fulfilled their commitment to pay off their loans," said Dr. Cassidy. "It is extremely unfair to punish these Americans, forcing them to pay the bill for these irresponsible and unfair student loan schemes." REP. GOOD INTRODUCES THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE UNITY ACT

March 24, 2023 WASHINGTON, D.C. – Congressman Bob Good (VA-5) introduced the English Language Unity Act to establish English as the official language of the United States government.

"In the melting pot of the United States of America, our common English language promotes unity and fosters cultural integration," said Congressman Bob Good. "The English Language Unity Act is a common-sense measure that will strengthen America by establishing English as our official language, encouraging its use throughout the country, and cutting total federal spending. It is also in the best interests of our legal immigrants, as proficiency in English helps them assimilate into our culture, succeed in the workplace, and reach their greatest potential." REP. GOOD: BIDEN'S BUDGET PROPOSAL DOUBLES DOWN ON FAILED POLICIES

March 9, 2023 Washington, DC— Congressman Bob Good (VA-05) calls out President Biden's newly unveiled FY2024 budget as a failure to recognize the nation's fiscal crisis.

"President Biden's newly unveiled budget would waste hard-earned taxpayer dollars on a radical leftist agenda, drive us deeper into debt, and raise taxes on a fragile economy. Right now, when Americans desperately need a return to economic stability, Biden's Budget proposal fails to recognize the nation's fiscal crisis."

Lowlights of the Woke, Weaponized and Wasteful Biden Budget Proposal:

- $52 billion for climate projects and so-called "environmental justice."
- Weaponizes the Department of Veterans' Affairs by providing "gender affirming services" for veterans.
- Hundreds of billions of dollars for so-called "equity" priorities.
- Abolishes incentivizes for oil and gas companies, undermining American energy independence.
- $4.5 trillion in economy-crippling tax increases.
- $2 billion for the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms, and Explosives to expand gun control efforts.
- $14.1 billion for the already bloated Internal Revenue Service.
- NO funding for the Southern Border wall to secure our border and protect Americans.
- 5.2% pay increase for federal government employees.
- A $7 billion no-strings-attached borrowed gift to Ukraine.
- $7.3 billion for the Office of Refugee and Resettlement to welcome millions more illegals into the U.S.
